2. Discussion Points

2.1 Human-Wildlife Coexistence Bond

AB Entheos requested specific clarity regarding AWF's potential operational role in the development and execution of the Human-Wildlife Coexistence Bond. Key areas of inquiry included:

- Organizational Capacity: Whether AWF intends to participate primarily as a funder, a fundraiser, or a hybrid of both roles.
- Technical Contribution: A request for confirmation on whether Isaac Mureithi would be formally allocated to the design and development of the Bond, as the representative from AWF.

2.2 Africa Insurance Risk Pool for Nature

Kicked off a brief review of the Africa Insurance Risk Pool for Nature, a multi-stakeholder initiative involving AWF, AB Entheos, ZEP-RE (PTA Reinsurance Company), UNDP, the COMESA Secretariat, and ACRE Africa.

- Strategic Context: Reference was made to the Business Daily column (April 14, 2025) by Kaddu - AWF's CEO, which underscored the potential for insurance to reshape African conservation economics.
- Economic Drivers: The conversation highlighted the critical scale of Human-Wildlife Conflict (HWC). It was noted that in Kenya alone, compensation claims exceeded KSh 4.5 billion between 2014 and 2023, emphasizing the need for robust financial buffers like parametric insurance.
- Representation: A gap was noted in regard to AWF representation in previous high-level discussions. Consequently, Isaac Mureithi could be proposed to serve as the AWF representative for this initiative, aligning with his mandate to develop nature-insurance avenues for the organization.

3. Conclusion & Action Items

The meeting concluded with a mutual agreement to refine the partnership framework. The following next steps were identified:

- Internal Alignment: AWF (via Isaac Mureithi) will provide feedback to AB Entheos regarding the path forward for both the Risk Pool and the Coexistence Bond.
- Strategic Involvement: The Foundation Relations Manager from AWF could join the next introductory meeting to provide definitive insights into AWF's institutional capacity and its specific commitments to these projects.
